SALLEE IS EFFECTIVE WITH MEN ON PATHS

By GEORGE B. UNDERWOOD. Wuxtra! Wuxtra! The Superbas "laid lown" to the Giants!

If you don't believe it just look at the core-New York 7, Brooklyn 3. At the end of the ninth spasm Man-ager Robinson, perhaps uttering loud moans of anguish, rushed madly from the field. Maybe when seen in the clubhouse he gulped between sobs of sad-

Which all touches on and appertains

This is a good staff, but it isn't the staff that Shore, Leonard, Ruth, Foster and Mays are. With the exception of Coombs and Marquard the Brooklyn staff does not seem to be at its best when most is at stake. Take the case of Cheney and Pfeffer in the recent Philadelphia series. Larry was knocked out in a few innings in the first game and Pfeffer kicked off the second game, 7 to 2. Marquard and Coombs then came to Brooklyn's rescue. The Rube beat Alexander in the third and last game of the series and then Coombs shut out the Giants.

Robby is a past master on pitchers, but he will have his troubles doping out what he should do. Pfeffer, on paper at least, is the star of the staff, but Hig Ed has lost prestige rather than gained it during the fight for the pennant. Will Robby start with his recognized star Pfeffer or depend on Marquard and Coombs for the first game? The first game is much more important to Brooklyn than to Boston. The Red Sox have a habit of losing the first game and then cleaning up on important series. Brooklyn realizes they are the under dogs in BROOKLYN ASKS 2 TO 1.

BROOKLYN ASKS 2 TO 1.
